THE FOLLOWING BOOK CONTAINS ONLY A SMALL PORTION OF THE LAWS OF MARYLAND. THE INTENT, IN CREATING THIS BOOK, WAS TO PROVIDE A SMALL USEABLE VERSION OF THE LAWS FOR POLICE OFFICERS TO HAVE AVAILABLE WITH THEM WHEN THEY ARE WORKING. IT SHOULD NOT BE CONSIDERED THE ONLY SOURCE OF INFORMATION. PORTIONS OF SOME SECTIONS HAVE BEEN EDITED OR SUMMARIZED. WHEN IN DOUBT ABOUT THE ACTUAL LANGUAGE OF THE LAW, USE THE ANNOTATED CODE OF MARYLAND BOOKS.

This information is not intended to substitute for advice of legal counsel. Due to the dynamic nature of law enforcement and the impact of court decisions and statutory changes on police operations, it is important that you review this information in light of current federal and local law and regulations, and your department's policy and procedure. The staff of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions welcomes suggestions for improvement of this material.

THE FOLLOWING REPRESENTS AREAS OF CHANGE IN THE 2002 EDITION OF THE DIGEST OF CRIMINAL LAWS:

The majority of Article 27 was re-written and is now found in the Criminal Law Article. The actual changes are too numerous too list. For the most part, the content was not changed substantially but was merely reorganized by the legislature.

Reporting Suspected Terrorist Activity:

When reporting suspected terrorist activity, officers are required to follow all established protocols.

The numbers below are provided to assist officers in collecting or verifying information.

GENERAL POLICE POWERS

NOTE -References herein to Article and Section numbers are to the Annotated Code of Maryland.

"USCA" refers to Federal laws, in the United States Code Annotated.

"Op. A.G." refers to Opinions of the Attorney General of Maryland.

Cases from Maryland appeals courts are cited as __Md. App.__(year), which is the Court of Appeals- highest court, or __Md. App.__(year), which is the Court of Special Appeals'- second highest court. Cases coming from both these courts will also have citations in the Atlantic Reporter, such as 123 A.2d 456 (year).

Newly-decided cases may be accessible only through a database, and will be cited by year and reference number until they get an "official" citation. For example, 2000 WL 12345. "WL" stands for West law.

"CJ" refers to the legal reference work, Corpus Juris.

"Hochheimer" refers to Hochheimer on Criminal Law, 1911 Edition. This is still a standard work on the subject in Maryland.

"Voorhees" refers to Voorhees on Arrest, 2nd Edition, 1915.

ETHICS IN POLICE SERVICE:

In America, where the supremacy of public opinion is assured, it is essential that the system upon which public safety depends is developed to a high degree of efficiency and that it is in a manner to assure the continued approbation and respect of the public.

Rules cannot be drawn that will prescribe in specific detail the manner in which all the duties of law enforcement officers shall be performed. The problems of police service are many, and they are subject to the influence of the constant development of public administration. This code describes the basic objectives sought and provides general rules for the performance of the manifold duties of law enforcement.

BASIC OBJECTIVES:

1. To elevate the standing of the profession in the public mind, and to strengthen public confidence in law enforcement.
2. To encourage law enforcement officers to fully appreciate the responsibilities of their office.
3. To develop and maintain complete support and cooperation of the public in law enforcement.
4. To insure the effectiveness of the service by encouraging cooperation of its members for their mutual benefit.
5. To strive for full coordination of effort in all official relationships with other governmental bodies.
6. To consider police work an honorable profession and to recognize in it an opportunity to render a worthwhile service to society.

General Rules of Official Conduct:

I. Policemen shall be habitually courteous; they shall recognize their responsibilities as public servants and shall be particularly attentive to citizens seeking assistance or information or who desire to register complaints or give evidence.

II. They shall accept their responsibility to the public by being punctual in their engagements and expeditious in the performance of their duties.

III. They shall regard their office as a public trust and in the discharge of their duties, be constantly mindful of their primary obligation to serve the public, efficiently and effectively.

IV. They shall administer the law in a just, impartial and reasonable manner; and shall not accord to some more reasonable treatment than to others. They shall recognize the limitations of their authority and at no time use the power of their office for their own personal advantage.

V. They shall be true to their obligation as custodians of public property and shall bear in mind that the misuse and waste of public property is equally as reprehensible as the misuse or waste of money from the public treasury.

VI. They shall not limit their effectiveness in the administration of their office by accepting gratuities or favors from citizens or corporations with whom they may have official dealings.

VII. They shall add to their effectiveness by diligent study and sincere attention to self-improvement. They shall welcome the opportunity to disseminate practical and useful information relating to matters of the public's safety and welfare.

VIII. They shall so conduct their public and private life that the public will regard them as examples of stability, fidelity, and morality.

IX. They shall bear faithful allegiance to their government and be loyal to their profession. They shall accept as a sacred obligation their responsibility as citizens to support the Constitution of the United States; and as public officials they shall consider the privilege of defending the principles

liberty as defined in our constitutions and laws, the greatest honor that may be bestowed upon any man.

Criminal Law Article 1-101

ATTEMPT

The punishment of a person who is convicted of an attempt to commit a crime may not exceed the maximum punishment for the crime attempted.

Criminal Law Article 1-201

CONSPIRACY

The punishment of a person who is convicted of conspiracy may not exceed the maximum punishment for the crime that the person conspired to commit.

Criminal Law Article 1-202

Charging Document

An indictment or warrant for conspiracy is sufficient if it substantially states: "(name of defendant) and (name of co-conspirator) on (date) in (county) unlawfully conspired together to murder (name of victim) (or other object of conspiracy), against the peace, government, and dignity of the state."

Criminal Law Article 1-203

ACCESSORY AFTER THE FACT

Unless otherwise provided by law, a person who is convicted of being an accessory after the fact to a felony is guilty of a felony and on conviction is subject to the lesser of:

(1) imprisonment not exceeding 5 years; or

(2) a penalty not exceeding the maximum penalty provided by law for committing the underlying felony.

Criminal Law Article 1-301

PROOF OF INTENT-- fraud, theft, and related crimes.

In a trial for counterfeiting, issuing, disposing of, passing, altering, stealing, embezzling, or destroying any kind of instrument, or theft by the obtaining of property by false pretenses, it is sufficient to prove that the defendant did the act charged with an intent to defraud without proving an intent by the defendant to defraud a particular person.

Criminal Law Article 1-401

FELONY AND MISDEMEANOR:

In this State, only those crimes are felonies which were such at common law, or have been so declared by statute. Dutton vs. State, 128 Md. 373, 378; Bower vs. State, 136 Md. 342, 345. All crimes less than felonies are misdemeanors. Hochheimer, Sec. 5.

Felonies at common law are arson, burglary, larceny, murder, manslaughter, rape, robbery, sodomy, and mayhem.

INFAMOUS CRIMES:

Infamous crimes in Maryland embrace treason, felonies, and those misdemeanors which are founded in fraud. Thus they would include the crimes of perjury, bribery, and false pretenses, which are misdemeanors containing an element of fraud.

INFANCY:

A person under seven years is conclusively presumed incapable of committing crime. Hochheimer, Sec. 12.

ARREST:

Is the taking into custody of a person. In order to constitute an arrest, there must be either a touching of the body (which may be of the slightest kind, "even with the end of a finger"), or there must be a notification of the purpose to arrest and submission thereto.

Hochheimer, Sec. 119.

ARREST

The law of arrest in Maryland is in common law and statutory form.

The basic distinction in Maryland's law of arrest is that between a felony and a misdemeanor. Generally, of course, felonies are the "more serious" and misdemeanors are the "less serious" offenses. The courts have tried to evolve a law of arrest which on the one side would protect society from crime and criminals and on the other side would protect the individual from arbitrary arrest. The solution has been to permit the officer to arrest without a warrant for a felony, but to restrict the right of arrest if a misdemeanor has been committed.

A copy of the warrant and charging document shall be served on the defendant promptly after the arrest. The defendant shall be taken before a judicial officer of the District Court without unnecessary delay and in no event later than 24 hours after arrest or, if the warrant so specifies, before a judicial officer of the Circuit Court without unnecessary delay and in no event later than the next session of court after the date of arrest. The court shall process the defendant pursuant to Rule 4-216 and may make provision for the appearance or waiver of counsel pursuant to Rule 4-215. Md. Rules 4-212

The law generally treats the use of force as "privileged" if necessary to carry out the officer's underlying duty to execute a court order. One executing an order of a court is privileged, if such process or order is valid or fair on its face, to use such force against the person of another as is authorized by the order or is reasonably necessary for the execution of the order. 84 Opinions of the Attorney General__ (1999), note 8 (other citations omitted). But the fact that an officer has authority to use force in a particular circumstance does not necessarily imply that the officer has a duty to use force. Id.; C.F., Ashburn v. Anne Arundel County, 306 Md. 617, 510 A.2d 1078 (1986).

ASSISTANCE IN MAKING ARREST:

An officer is authorized in cases of necessity or when he has reason to apprehend that resistance will be made, to require any and all persons present to assist him in making a lawful arrest. Any person refusing to assist the officer, on demand so made, is himself guilty of a misdemeanor.

State vs. Mayhew, 2 Gill's Maryland Reports 488 to 503.

FORCE IN MAKING ARREST:

Any force used must be reasonable under the circumstances. Exactly what is "reasonable" is not capable of precise definition, but depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case, as judged by the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene. See e.g., Graham v. Connor, 490 U.S. 386, 109 S.Ct. 1865 (1989). Generally, officers should use the least amount of force that is necessary to control an incident, effect an arrest, or to protect themselves or others from harm or death as may be necessary to take the prisoner into custody. If, however, he is resisted he may repel force with force.

A prudent officer, in making an arrest, should always consider the enormity of the crime and the character of resistance, and use only such a force as may be necessary to overcome the resistance and make the arrest.

BREAKING DOORS:

Doors may be broken open by an officer:

- (1) For the purpose of arresting for any offense upon a warrant, when entrance is denied him. Demand of entrance must first be made. Commonwealth vs. Reynolds, 20 Mass., 190, 196.
- (2) For the purpose of arresting a person charged with a serious offense who has just escaped from his custody. 11 Gray 194; 106 Ill. 621.
- (3) To suppress affrays which he may have heard from the outside.

In cases of misdemeanor, the safer rule is for the officer to make known his official capacity and demand entrance before breaking.

There is no blanket exception to the knock-and-announce requirement for felony drug investigations. Instead, to justify a "no-knock" entry, police must have a reasonable suspicion that knocking and announcing their presence, under the particular circumstances, would be dangerous or futile, or would inhibit effective investigation of crime by, e.g. allowing destruction of evidence. Richards v. Wisconsin, 520 U.S. 385, 117 S. Ct. 1416 (1997).

EXEMPTIONS FROM ARREST:

Friendly foreign Sovereigns and their attendants, their Ambassadors and other diplomatic agents, public ministers and their attendants, household, and retinue are exempt from arrest, entry of their houses, or subjection to the process of law of the country visited. No person belonging to the organized militia, shall be arrested on any process except such as may be issued by military authority, while going to, remaining at, or returning from any place at which he may be required to attend for military duty.

United States Senators and Representatives shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place. Article 1, Section 6, United States Constitution.

(Editor's Note: The Supreme Court has ruled on several occasions that the "constitutional freedom from arrest does not exempt Members of Congress from the operation of the ordinary criminal laws, even though imprisonment may prevent or interfere with the performance of their duties as Member". Gravel v. UNITED STATES, 92 S.Ct. 2614, 408 US 606, 33 L. Ed. 2d 583 (1972).

This protection to members of Congress is given by the Constitution of the United States, and that of the members of the State Legislatures is generally secured to them by the constitutions of the various states, or by the common law. Voorhees, Paragraph 27.

FOREIGN VESSELS:

Ships of war belonging to foreign nations are exempt from local jurisdiction of the country whose ports they are permitted to visit, but merchant vessels and their crews are not thus exempt.

Hochheimer, Sec. 11.

Steps to Follow When a Foreign National Is Arrested or Detained (These steps should be followed for all foreign nationals, regardless of their immigration status)

1. Determine the foreign national's country. Normally, this is the country on whose passport or other travel document the foreign national travels.
2. If the foreign national's country is not on the mandatory notification countries list on the facing page:
 - (I) Offer, without delay, to notify the foreign national's consular officials of the arrest/detention.
 - (II) If the foreign national asks that consular notification be given, notify the nearest consular officials of the foreign national's country without delay.
3. If the foreign national's country is on the list of mandatory notification countries:
 - (I) Notify that country's nearest consular officials, without delay, of the arrest/detention.
 - (II) Tell the foreign national that you are making this notification.
4. Keep a written record of the provision of notification and actions taken.

When a warrant is placed in the hands of an officer he is not bound to inquire into the particulars of the complaint, or whether any was made at all. If the warrant is in due form and is sued by a person having a right to issue it, the duty of the officer is to execute it without further inquiry, and Courts and Judicial Proceedings Article1-605.

LIFE OF A WARRANT:

A warrant remains in force until it is returned; even if the accused has been arrested and escapes he may be taken again on the same warrant, if it has not been returned. A return is an official statement ("cepi" which means "I have taken") by an officer of what he has done in executing the command of the warrant. However, after a warrant has been returned, it has no validity.

WARRANTS IN BLANK ARE VOID:

A warrant must not be issued in blank with a view of later writing in the name of the defendant. Such warrants are absolutely void. Voorhees, Sec. 38.

AUTHORITY TO ALTER A WARRANT:

No person, other than the issuing judge has the right to alter a warrant, because, if altered by a third party, it would not be the warrant issued by the magistrate who signed it. Voorhees, Sec. 48.

REQUISITES OF A WARRANT:

The warrant should be signed by the judge issuing it, set forth the time and place of making it, the charge or offense, and be directed to the proper officer, requiring him to bring the accused either generally before any judge of the city or county where issued, or specially before the judge issuing it; the full name, or if it be unknown, a statement of the fact and a description of the person to be arrested, must be given; but a mere formal irregularity upon the face of the warrant will not render the officer liable who serves it. 65 Md. 341.

SEARCH WARRANT:

A search warrant is a warrant requiring the officer to whom it is addressed to search a house, or other place, therein specified, for stolen, contraband, or illicit property, and if the same shall be found upon such search, to bring the goods so found, together with the body of the person occupying the same, who is named, before the justice or other officer granting the warrant, or some other justice of the peace, or other lawfully authorized officer.

Cyclopedia Law Dictionary, 3d Edition.

Search Warrants

In general, a District or Circuit Court judge may issue a search warrant when there is probable cause to believe that a misdemeanor or felony is being committed by a person or in a building, apartment, premises, place, or thing within the territorial jurisdiction of the judge or property subject to seizure under the criminal laws of the state in or on the person or in or on the building, apartment, premises, place, or thing.

Education Article 7-308.

EVIDENCE:

See Maryland Rules of Evidence Md. Rules 5-101 through 5-1008.

Complete, accurate, truthful, convincing evidence, and plenty of it, is what secures convictions. In a criminal action, no person can be compelled to testify against himself. A defendant is presumed to be innocent of a crime charged unless the contrary can be proven. The trial body before whom an issue is in question, makes its decision from evidence that is presented during the trial of facts. Every policeman should keep in mind when gathering evidence its admissibility during the trial, regardless of its tendency to establish or disprove the matter in question.

It must be:

Relevant-Tends to establish the fact at issue.

Material-Affects fact or issue in case significantly.

Competent-Matters pertaining to the issue through medium of persons qualified to testify.

Evidence is "any species of proof, or probative matter, legally presented and accepted at the trial of an issue through the medium of witnesses, records, documents, concrete objects, etc., for the purpose of inducing belief in the minds of the court or jury as to their contention".

There are three major classifications of evidence recognized. Direct evidence, circumstantial evidence, and physical evidence.

Direct evidence is testimony about a relevant fact by a witness describing what he saw or knows of his own knowledge.

Circumstantial evidence is indirect evidence; that from which may be inferred.

Physical evidence speaks for itself. It requires no explanation, merely identification of photographs, X-rays, objects, etc.

Besides the three major classifications, frequently in court actions the word "evidence" is compounded or used with a descriptive term, some of which are as follows:

Accomplice's Evidence-Not deemed sufficient unless corroborated by another witness, not an accomplice.

Competent Evidence-Pertaining to the facts at issue.

Incompetent Evidence-It is not permitted to be presented in relation to the particular matter at issue, due to the lack of originality or of some defect in the witness, document or of the evidence itself.

Conclusive Evidence-That which is so strong and convincing as to overbear all proof to the contrary beyond any reasonable doubt.

Corroborative Evidence-Strengthening or confirming, also additional evidence of a different character in support of the same point.

Cumulative Evidence-More evidence proving a point already established.

Documentary Evidence-Supplied by writing and documents by which ideas are represented on material substances relative to the fact at issue.

Expert Evidence-Given in relation to scientific, professional or technical matter by experts qualified to speak with authority by reason of their special training, skill or familiarity with subject at issue.

Opinion Evidence-A conclusion of what the witness thinks, believes, or infers in regard to the fact at issue.

Testimonial Evidence-Sworn statement.

Prima Facie Evidence-Good and sufficient on its face; and if not rebutted or contradicted, will remain sufficient.

Irrelevant Evidence-Opposite of relevant.

Legally Sufficient Evidence-The amount of proof which would satisfy an unprejudiced mind beyond a reasonable doubt.

Hearsay Evidence-An out of court statement which is offered at trial, by someone who heard it, to establish the truth of the matter asserted in the statement. What the witness heard another person say. Generally inadmissible but can be admissible if certain exceptions apply, such as prior statements, excited utterances, dying declarations, statement against interest, etc.

Former Testimony- Testimony given as a witness in any proceeding, or in a deposition taken in compliance with law, if the party against whom the testimony is now offered had an opportunity and motive to develop that testimony, and of the declarant is now unavailable as a witness.

Character Evidence refers to the defendant's reputation as spoken of or discussed in the community in which he lives, not among a few business associates.

Dying Declarations-In a prosecution for an offense for homicide, attempted homicide, or assault with intent to commit homicide (or any civil case), a statement made by a declarant while believing his death was imminent, concerning the cause or circumstances of what the declarant believed to be his impending death, is admissible if the declarant is now unavailable as a witness. The courts have held that it is reasonable to assume that every man, regardless of his religious belief, believes that there is a hereafter and that if he knows he is going to die he will want to make peace with his Maker, that he is more likely to tell the truth if he knows he is going to die than if he is in perfect health and under oath.

Dying Declaration Instruction-The thing of greatest importance is that the victim believes that he is going to die as a result of the injury received and makes a statement to this effect before making the declaration. The following is a sample of the questions that may be asked:

What is your name?

Where do you live?

Have you any hopes of recovery from the effects of the injury you have sustained?

Are you willing to make a true statement as to how you were injured?

If the victim is about to die, and does not believe it, a doctor should be request to tell him so. If he still refuses to admit his belief in near death, the statement cannot be admitted as evidence. It should be taken nevertheless.

When possible, the victim of the crime and the person accused should confront each other.

Important admissions or identifications are often obtained this way.

Confessions and Statements-A confession is an acknowledgment in express words by the accused in a criminal case of the guilt of the crime accused of or of some essential part of it. For a confession or statement to be used as evidence in court the following guidelines must be followed:

When a suspect is taken into custody or otherwise deprived of his freedom he must be "warned" that;

(1) he has the absolute right to remain silent,

(2) he must be informed that anything he says can be used against him in a court of law,

(3) he must be informed that he has the right to have an attorney present, and if he cannot afford an attorney, one will be appointed for him prior to any questioning, if he so desires, (4) if the individual indicates in any manner, at any time prior to or during questioning that he wishes to remain silent, the interrogation must cease. If he requests an attorney, interrogation must cease until an attorney is present and at that time he must be given an opportunity to confer privately with counsel and to have him present during subsequent questioning. If authorities conclude that they will not provide counsel for a reasonable period of time during which investigations in the field are carried out, they may do so without violating his privilege against self-incrimination, so long as they do not question him during that period.

Routine processing without questioning (fingerprinting, photographing) does not violate his privilege against self-incrimination.

Reasonable grounds must exist for this processing and it may be by reasonable force where necessary. After these warnings have been given, and an opportunity to exercise these rights afforded, the individual may knowingly and intelligently waive these rights and agree to answer questions or make a statement. Failure to ask for a lawyer does not, in itself, constitute a waiver, and until such warnings and waiver are proven by the prosecution at the trial, no evidence obtained as a result of interrogation can be introduced. Any evidence that the accused was threatened, tricked, or cajoled into a waiver will show that the individual did not voluntarily waive his privilege and statements or evidence resulting from this will be suppressed..

Voluntary Confession--Preceding guidelines do not require police to stop a person who enters a police station and states that he wishes to confess to a crime, or a person who calls the police to offer a confession or any other statement he desires to make.

Judicial Notice-- A court may take judicial notice of facts that are either generally known within the jurisdiction, or capable of accurate and ready determination by referring to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned: the explosive nature of gasoline; the sun rises in the east; name of the President, etc..

STATEMENTS BY WITNESSES:

In homicides or other crimes, statements should be written out and submitted for any correction the witness may wish to make, and for his signature. Each page of the statement should be signed by the witness and officers.

In obtaining statements from witnesses, in no case will the witness be asked to swear as to the correctness of his statement, but in all cases the witness's signature will be taken before other witnesses, who will certify as to the correctness of the signature.

When the statement is not in the handwriting of the person making it, the following phrase, or one substantially like it, should be added: "I have read the above statement consisting of ??? pages and I wish to state that the facts and matters therein contained are true and correct". The same procedure should be adopted when securing statements from witnesses other than the defendant who may be used in the case. Remember it is better to have too many than too few witnesses. For the want of a witness many a case or conviction was lost. It is the duty of any member of the Department obtaining a statement to see that the original notes are preserved for future use in court proceedings. Members of the Department will appear in court against any person whom they may arrest, and will be held responsible for the production of all evidence, property or witnesses.

EVIDENCE--DNA

(c) In any criminal proceeding, the evidence of a DNA profile is admissible to prove or disprove the identity of any person.

Courts and Judicial Proceedings Article 10-915.

EVIDENCE--SEIZURE OF PROPERTY BY POLICE FOR USE AS:

Property may be seized and held for use as evidence by police, where necessary, even though the owner is not charged with the crime. Good vs. Police Commissioners, 137 Md. 192, 197.

WIRETAP:

(a) The General Assembly finds that:

(1) Juveniles who are not under proper supervision and control or who abscond, escape, or run away are likely to endanger the health, morals, and welfare of themselves and others; and

(2) Cooperation of this State with other states is necessary to provide for the welfare and protection of juveniles and of the people of this State.

(b) It is the policy of this State, in adopting the Interstate Compact on Juveniles, to cooperate fully with others states in accordance with the Compact:

(1) To return juveniles to others states is their return is sought; and

(2) To initiate proceedings for the return of a juvenile and accept the return of a juvenile, if a juvenile residing in this State is found or apprehended in another state.

(c) Inapplicability of definition of "person". The definitions of the word "person" in section 1-101 of this article and Article 15 of the Code do not apply to this subtitle.

Health Article-General 6-301.

ARTICLE I--Findings and Purposes

That juveniles who are not under proper supervision and control, or who have absconded, escaped or run away, are likely to endanger their own health, morals and welfare, and the health, morals and welfare of others. The cooperation of the states party to this compact is therefore necessary to provide for the welfare and protection of juveniles and of the public with respect to:

(1) cooperative supervision of delinquent juveniles on probation or parole;

(2) the return, from one state to another, of delinquent juveniles who have escaped or absconded;

(3) the return, from one state to another, of non-delinquent juveniles who have run away from home; and

(4) additional measures for the protection of juveniles and of the public, which any two or more of the party states may find desirable to undertake cooperatively. In carrying out the provisions of this compact the party states shall be guided by the non-criminal, reformatory and protective policies which guide their laws concerning delinquent, neglected or dependent juveniles generally.

It shall be the policy of the states party to this compact to cooperate and observe their respective responsibilities for the prompt return and acceptance of juveniles and delinquent juveniles who become subject to the provisions of this compact. The provisions of the compact shall be reasonably and liberally construed to accomplish the foregoing purposes.

ARTICLE IV--Return of Runaways

(a) That the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to legal custody of a juvenile who has not been adjudged delinquent but who has run away without the consent of such parent, guardian, person or agency may petition the appropriate court demanding state for the issuance of a requisition of his return. The petition shall state the name and age of the juvenile, the name of the petitioner and the basis of his entitlement to the juvenile's custody, the circumstances of his running away, his location if known at the time application is made, and such other facts as may tend to show that the juvenile who has run away is endangering his own welfare or the welfare of others and is not an emancipated minor. The petition shall be verified by affidavit, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be accompanied by two certified copies of the document or documents on which the petitioner's entitlement to the juvenile's custody is based, such as birth certificates, letters of guardianship, or custody decrees. Such further affidavits and other documents as may be deemed proper may be submitted with such petition. The judge of the court to which this application is made may hold a hearing thereon to determine whether for the purposes of this compact the petitioner is entitled to the legal custody of the juvenile, whether or not it appears that the juvenile has in fact run away without consent, whether or not he is emancipated minor, and whether or not it is in the best interest of the juvenile to compel his return to the state. If the judge determines, either with or without a hearing, that the juvenile should be returned, he shall present to the appropriate court or to the executive authority of the state where the juvenile is alleged to be located a written requisition for the return of such juvenile. Such requisition shall set forth the name and the age of the juvenile, the determination of the court that the juvenile has run away without the consent of a parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to his legal custody, and that it is in the best interest and for the protection of such juvenile that he be returned. In the event that a proceeding for the adjudication of the juvenile as a delinquent, neglected or dependent juvenile is pending in the court at the time when such juvenile runs away, the court may issue a requisition for the return of such juvenile upon its own motion, regardless of the consent of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to legal custody, reciting therein the nature and circumstances of the pending proceedings. The requisition shall in every case be executed in duplicate and shall be signed by the judge. One copy of the requisition shall be filed with the compact administrator of the demanding state, there to remain on file subject to the provisions of law governing records of such court. Upon the receipt of a requisition demanding the return of a juvenile who has run away, the court or the executive authority to whom the requisition is addressed shall issue an order to any peace officer or other appropriate person directing him to take into custody and detain such juvenile. Such detention order must substantially recite the facts necessary to the validity of its issuance hereunder. No juvenile detained upon such order shall be delivered over to the officer whom the court demanding him shall have appointed to receive him, unless he shall first be taken forthwith before a judge of a court in the state, who shall inform him of the demand made for his return and who may appoint counsel or guardian for him. If the judge of such court shall find that the requisition is in order, he shall deliver such juvenile over to the officer whom the court demanding him shall have appointed to receive him. The judge, however, may fix a reasonable time to be allowed for the purpose of testing the legality of the proceeding.

Upon reasonable information that person is a juvenile who has run away from another state party to this compact without the consent of a parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to his legal custody, such juvenile may be taken into custody without a requisition and brought forth with before a judge of the appropriate court who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for such juvenile and who shall determine after a hearing whether sufficient cause exists to hold the person, subject to the order of the court, for his own protection and welfare, for such a time not exceeding 90 days as will enable his return to another state party to this compact pursuant to a requisition for his return from a court of that state. If, at the time when a state seeks the return of a juvenile who has run away, there is pending in the state where in he is found any criminal charge, or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for an act committed in such state, or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of such state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the juvenile being returned, shall be permitted to transport such juvenile through any and all states party to this compact, without interference. Upon his return to the state from which he ran away, the juvenile shall be subject to such further proceedings as may be appropriate under the laws of that state.

(b) That the state to which a juvenile is returned under the Article shall be responsible for payment of the transportation costs of such return.

(c) That "juvenile" as used in this Article means any person who is a minor under the law of the state of residence of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to the legal custody of such minor.

ARTICLE V--Return of Escapees and Absconders

(a) That the appropriate person or authority from whose probation or parole supervision a delinquent juvenile has absconded or from whose institutional custody he has escaped shall present to the appropriate court or to the executive authority of the state where the delinquent juvenile is alleged to be located, a written requisition for the return of such delinquent juvenile the particulars of his adjudication as a delinquent juvenile, the circumstances of the breach of the terms of his probation or parole or his escape from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision and the location of such delinquent juvenile, if known, at the time the requisition is made. The requisition shall be verified by affidavit, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be accompanied by two certified copies of the judgement, formal adjudication, or order of commitment which subject such delinquent juvenile to probation or parole or to the legal custody of the institution or agency concerned. Such further affidavits and other documents as may be deemed proper may be submitted with such requisition. One copy of the requisition shall be filed with the compact administrator of the demanding state, there to remain on file subject to the provisions of law governing records of the appropriate court. Upon the receipt of a requisition demanding the return of a delinquent juvenile who has absconded or escaped, the court of the executive authority to whom the requisition is addressed shall issue an order to any peace officer or other appropriate person directing him to take into custody and detain such delinquent juvenile.

Such detention order must substantially recite the facts necessary to the validity of its issuance hereunder. No delinquent juvenile detained upon such order shall be delivered over to the officer whom the appropriate person or authority demanding him shall have appointed to receive him, unless he shall first be taken forthwith before a judge or an appropriate court in the state who shall inform him of the demand made for his return and who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for him. If the judge of such court shall find that the requisition is in order, he shall deliver such delinquent juvenile over to the officer whom the appropriate person or authority demanding him shall have appointed to receive him. The judge, however, may fix a reasonable time to be allowed for the purpose of testing the legality of the proceeding.

Upon reasonable information that a person is a delinquent juvenile who has absconded while on probation or parole, or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision in any state party to this compact, such person may be taken into custody in any other state party to this compact without a requisition. But in such event, he must be taken forthwith before a judge of the appropriate court, who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for such person and who shall determine, after a hearing, whether sufficient cause exists to hold the person subject to the order of the court for such a time, not exceeding 90 days, as will enable his detention under a detention order issued on a requisition pursuant to this Article. If, at the time when a state seeks the return of a delinquent juvenile who has either absconded while on probation or parole or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision, there is pending in the state wherein he is detained any criminal charge or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for an act committed within such a state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of such state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the delinquent juvenile being returned, shall be permitted to transport such delinquent juvenile through any and all states party to this compact, without interference. Upon his return to the state from which he escaped or absconded, the delinquent juvenile shall be subject to such further proceedings as may be appropriate under the laws of that state,

(b) That the state to which a delinquent juvenile is returned under this Article shall be responsible for the payment of the transportation costs of such return.

ARTICLE VI--Voluntary Return Procedure

That any delinquent juvenile who has absconded while on probation or parole, or escaped from an institution or agency vested within his legal custody or supervision in any state party to his compact, and any juvenile who has run away from any state party to this compact, who is taken into custody without a requisition in another state party to this contract under provisions of Article IV (a) or Article V (a), may consent to his immediate return to the state from which he absconded, escaped or ran away. Such consent shall be given by the juvenile or delinquent juvenile and his counsel or guardian ad litem if any, by executing or subscribing a writing, in the presence of a just of the appropriate court, which states that the juvenile or delinquent juvenile and his counsel, or guardian ad litem, if any, consent to his return to the demanding state. Before such consent shall be executed or subscribed, however, the judge, in the present of counsel or guardian ad litem, if any, shall inform the juvenile or delinquent juvenile of his rights under this compact. When the consent has been duly executed, it shall be forwarded to and filed with the compact administrator of the state in which the court is located and the judge shall direct the officer having the juvenile or delinquent juvenile in custody to deliver him to the duly accredited officers or officers of the state demanding his return, and shall cause to be delivered to such officer or officers a copy of the consent. The court may, however, upon the request of the state to which the juvenile or delinquent juvenile is being returned, order him to return unaccompanied to such state and shall provide him with a copy of such court order, in such event a copy of the consent shall be forwarded to the compact administrator of the state to which said juvenile or delinquent juvenile is ordered to return.

ARTICLE IX--Detention Practices

That, to every extent possible, it shall be the policy of states party to this compact that no juvenile or delinquent juvenile shall be placed or detained in any prison, jail or lockup nor be detained or transported in association with criminal, vicious or dissolute persons.
